Summer meals program for kids begins June 1

BY COURIER STAFF REPORT

River Valley Resources, in coordination with the Indiana Department of Corrections of Madison and Aramark food services, will begin Summer Meals for Kids food service in June for children 18 years and under in Jefferson County.

The program, now in its eighth season, operates to feed children during the months of June and July while school is not in session. Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the program will operate differently this year but will still have the same mission — to provide nutritious meals to children who are food insecure during the summer break when school meals are not available.

Summer Meals for Kids will begin on Monday, June 1 and end on Friday, July 31, with days of operation on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. On Mondays and Wednesdays two meals will be distributed and on Fridays one meal will be provided.

In-person Shawe Memorial graduation scheduled for June 21

BY COURIER STAFF REPORT

Shawe Memorial High School will host an in-person graduation for seniors June 21, according to a letter Prince of Peace Schools sent to families last week.

The parochial school district is the latest in Jefferson County to announce graduation plans during the COVID-q9 pandemic, with Madison Consolidated High School holding a face-to-face ceremony July 26. Southwestern High School took a more cautious approach last week, recording its seniors walking across stage in separate time windows for a virtual graduation video to be broadcast May 29 on Madison TV 15.

Shawe's plans are more immediate and set aside a backup date of July 19 in case the state isn't able to meet reopening goals by late June. As projected, Stage 4 of the Back on Track Indiana plan would start June 14 and allow for gatherings of up to 250 people. Stage 3 of the plan currently allows for gatherings up to 100 people, above the capacity even a small school like Shawe could hold.

Madison lifts order to stay at home

City begins reopening more businesses

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Stage 3 of Indiana Gov. Eric Holcomb's plan for reopening the state began Friday and Madison Mayor Bob Courtney took the opportunity to hold his first in-person press conference in two months and introduce the city's plans moving forward.

For the most part, Madison's plan to reopen will follow that of the state. Stage 3 allows for groups of up to 100 individuals to meet, provided that they are still following social distancing guidelines, and the reopening of retail businesses and restaurants, at 75% capacity.

It is the hope that the new guidelines will allow both the city of Madison and the state of Indiana to began recovering from the economic woes that have been a by-product of the COVID-19 pandemic.

"With the stay-at-home order, the focus was to protect the health and welfare of our community and do the things that we could do to take precautions to drive down the infection rate and protect our community. And I think the stay-at-home orders worked very successfully," Courtney said. "Now, we're moving into a new stage to deal with the economic crisis that is unfolding because of the stay-at-home orders, in particular the businesses that had to close.

"The choice isn't now between saving lives and saving livelihoods. We have to make sure that both of those initiatives can work congruently."

Nearly all businesses and restaurants in Madison were free to open on Friday, just in time for the Memorial Day weekend, including gyms and other workout facilities. If all goes well, the state will move into Stage 4 on June 14 and then a complete reopening by July 4.

Courtney said that in order for the city and the state to stay open, four criteria must be met as laid out by Holcomb. Those four criteria all involve COVID-19 capacity: the number of hospitalized COVID-19 patients, the capacity for critical-care beds and ventilators, the ability to test for COVID-19, and capacity for contact tracing. If those four criteria are met, the state will move to Stage 4.

In addition to discussing the reopening plan, Courtney took the chance to introduce new Madison Parks & Recreation Department Director Seth Pennington as well as Chief of Police John Wallace, both of whom outlined plans for their department over the coming months.

Pennington, who was promoted to the position full time earlier this week, said that his department will focus on upgrading its online footprint, including the implementation of online registration for sports leagues, as well as increasing programs for both youths and seniors. Signups for summer leagues are now online at the city's website.

The event, normally held in conjunction with the Old Court Days on the nearby Courthouse Square, was solo this year after the COVID-19 pandemic canceled Court Days but still drew a huge turnout for the fundraiser. "Our beautiful town of Madison blew Engine One out of the water. Thank you so much for your support. We try hard to serve our community and today our community showed us that they appreciate what we do. We had a great fish fry. THANK YOU," the department posted on its Facebook page.

Wallace, who is beginning his second stint as Chief of Police in Madison, announced that the Madison Police Department has formed a new Crime Suppression Unit, that will be focused on combating drug issues in the community — not only at the street level but also at the investigative level — with four full-time detectives assigned to the unit.

"Illicit drug activity has proven to be the driving force behind 80% to 90% of all crimes. Statistics have proven that as drug arrests go up, other crime goes down," Wallace said. "The Crime Suppression Unit will target known drug trafficking areas and respond immediately to citizens' complaints. This is a multi-faceted plan of action and will focus on other areas as well."

Wallace said the SPU has already been involved in "numerous" narcotic opportunities in recent weeks that have resulted in multiple drug arrest. He noted that since much of the activity occurs at night, the Madison Police Department is working closely with both the Jefferson County Sheriff's Department as well as the Indiana State Police.

"All agencies have one united goal, to have a clean, safe and beautiful community for us to all call home," Wallace said. "I ask you to please not hesitate to call the Madison Police Department with your thoughts and concerns. When law enforcement and citizens team up together, it becomes a beautiful team."

GRADUATION

"This schedule has been discussed with school leadership, the Archdiocese of Indianapolis, and the Jefferson County Health Department," the letter stated.

Each graduate will receive up to eight tickets for family and friends, which will be requested by RSVP and checked at the door on graduation day. Graduates are asked to arrive at the same time as their guests and not show up too early as seating will be worked out ahead of time.

The school will predetermine seating for each group based on random drawings and seat them in different taped-off sections to encourage safe social distancing. Graduates will also be seated six feet apart during the ceremony. The exception is for winners of the Senior Package at the school's dinner auction held on Feb. 29, who will receive a preferred front row seat, according to Prince of Peace.

To make this year's graduation more special, students may pick one or two family members they invite to stand on stage and hand them their diploma. Masks for guests and faculty are strongly encouraged, according to the letter.

Prince of Peace President Phil Kahn said the proposal came down to both safety and wanting to make up for a rough year for families. He also hopes Shawe can host the graduation in June before one of its student leaves for military basic training in July.

"It's been really difficult as you can imagine, just trying to come up with ideas to make it really nice for the kids and the parents. It's been a rough year for everybody," Kahn said. "And then rather than us handling them and touching all of them, gloves or not, we're going have the parents do it; we thought that would be touching."

However, there will be no reception this year as graduates will be asked to individually leave the gym after ceremonies end and join up with their guests. Once one group exits, the next graduate will be called.

Kahn said a cap toss and family photos afterwards will most likely be in order, but students and guests are then encouraged to file out of the building instead of congregating and socializing.

Another big change this year will be no appearance from the Archbishop. For years the Archbishop of Indianapolis has attended to speak at Shawe's baccalaureate program, but Kahn said the Indianapolis Diocese adopted travel regulations during the pandemic and decided not to speak this year in person or over a web-conferencing app.

Also modified is the senior slideshow shown at every Shawe baccalaureate. Because Shawe is trying to adhere to a shorter ceremony for safety reasons, the slideshow will instead be shown on a digital platform, Prince of Peace said in the letter.

Despite the necessary modifications, Kahn said holding a face-to-face graduation was a high hope for the school.

"The biggest thing we talked about is with graduation, for most people, you hear them say it's walking across the stage. And we didn't want to take that away from all of them, if at all possible and if we could do it safely, and so that's what we decided," Kahn said.

MEALS

This year's program will be served using a "Grab and Go" method where children or their parents/guardians pick up meals to take home for consumption. In years past, children were required to congregate and share the meal with the supervision of volunteers and site supervisors, but due to restrictions imposed by the COVID-19 pandemic, participants will not be gathering for lunch, games and fellowship. They will be permitted to take the food home.

Program Director Lucy Dattilo said while this is a different format from previous years it allows the program to continue in a safe manner until things return to a "new normal" while continuing to provide food to children in need.

"When much of the world came to a screeching halt, one thing did not change. Children still were hungry and needed to be fed," Dattilo said. "Many families in Jefferson County continue to struggle and need help making ends meet. Our program fills a gap created when kids do not attend school by providing nutritious meals that give kids energy to enjoy their summer days."

Summer Meals for Kids will carrying on the food mission that has been going on since March in Jefferson County as local schools and Lide White Boys and Girls Club have all been distributing food through the Indiana Department of Education meal programs. The programs have either provided pick up service or delivery by traveling into neighborhoods to meet families at a designated site.

Dattilo and Tina Jones, the SMK volunteer coordinator, have been working hard to put people in place to serve the huge need caused by the current, ongoing pandemic. Four site supervisors and 200 volunteer time slots will be filled by area churches and local industry.

There will be 14 sites where children can pick up meals this summer on the days listed, including:

— Audubon Park, 10:30-10:45 a.m.

— Lydia Middleton Elementary, 10:30-11:30 a.m.

— Deputy Elementary, 11 a.m-noon

— Lide White Boys & Girls Club, 11 a.m.-11:40 a.m.

— Rykers' Ridge Elementary, 11 a.m.-noon

— Presidential Estates, 11:05-11:15 a.m.

— Windridge Apartments, 11:25-11:40 a.m.

— Madison Junior High School, noon-1 p.m.

— Southwestern Elementary, noon-1 p.m.

— Woodside Drive (Madison Estates), noon-1 p.m.

— Anderson Elementary, noon-1 p.m.

No identification is required but participants should go to only one site per day. The program is United States Department of Agriculture funded in cooperation with the Indiana Department of Education nutrition program and follows all Civil Rights guidelines.

Miller scores inaugural win

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

The H1 Unlimited Hydroplane Series put on a race Saturday that may not have been the real thing, but provided a good enough show to satisfy fans' thirsts until the big boats are able to get out on the water.

There were flips — five of them in fact — and deck to deck racing in nearly every heat as real-life drivers steered virtual boats in a race on a virtual race course in the inaugural H1 Unlimited E-League race on Guntersville Lake in Alabama. Seven different boats picked up victories on the day, capped by Quinton Miller's win aboard the U-12 Graham Trucking in the winner-take-all final heat.

"There was some shouting when I came across the finish line to be sure," said Miller, a 25-year-old from Mercer Island, Washington. "I'm super excited (about being the first winner) and I've just got thank Rob Graham and all of the sponsors for putting this thing on. I hope this keeps going and we can do this every week."

With three of the five scheduled races on this year's H1 Unlimited scheduled already canceled due to the COVID-19 pandemic — including the APBA Gold Cup in Madison — everybody in the sport was looking for a way to keep the interest up in the sport while also providing something for fans to get into.

Taking a cue from NASCAR, which ran several virtual races with existing drivers before returning to action last week, H1 joined forces with HydroSim, a virtual computer game developed by Scott Przybylski of San Diego which simulates the sport all the way down to water conditions and the effects of the wind.

A screenshot of the U-6 Miss HomeStreet/Miss Madison during the H1 Unlimited E-League race on Saturday.

The U-21 PayneWest Insurance (left) leads the U-12 Graham Trucking during the final heat of the H1 Unlimited E-League race on Saturday.

Each of the 12 current H1 Unlimited teams picked a driver to represent them in the first race, all of whom were veterans of the Unlimited Hydroplane League, a series that has been contested on HydroSim. The race itself was run under existing H1 rules, including qualifying and heat races.

Because every boat was the same, the race came down to the drivers themselves, not funding or boat setup. The races themselves were tight with all but two of the eight heats coming down to the wire. The six preliminary heats each featured a different winner with Miller's win in the final giving the race seven winners total.

Tim Johnson won Heat 1A, steering the U-91 Goodman Real Estate/Miss Madison to a close win while Cei Bowen steered the U-3 Grigg's Ace Hardware to victory in Heat 1B.

Eddie Kanfoush, who was the fastest qualifier, won Heat 2A in the U-99.9 Miss Rock, Mickey Washburn won 2B in the U-21 PayneWest Insurance, Matt Johnson won 3A in the U-98 Graham Trucking American Spirit and Kelsey Best won 3B in the U-6 Miss HomeStreet/Miss Madison.

Miss Homestreet's real driver, Jimmy Shane, served as spotter for Best and the virtual driver gave his real-life counterpart some credit for the win.

"I've got an inexperienced guy as my spotter so it's taken us a few races to get in sync," Best joked.

After Bowen won the Provisional Heat — the only repeat winner on the day — the field for the final heat was set. Quinton Miller was able to secure lane one with his brother D.J. Miller in lane two, aboard the U-7 Spirit of Detroit. It was a four-boat race for the first lap before D.J. Miller slid out and forced Kanfoush to blow over, resulting in a penalty on D.J. Miller.

Quinton Miller and Washburn battled for the next three laps with Washburn, now in lane two, taking the lead heading into the final lap. But Washburn ran into trouble exiting the first turn and Miller pulled away for the win.

"Everybody in this thing has been playing for a while and racing for a while, so we all kind of know each other," Miller said. "We know what each other is going to do so I just try to focus on my timing marks and know that it will sort itself out. I try to get lane one and then go racing after that."

Veteran hydroplane announcer Brad Luce provided the play-by-play while 2018 National High Point Champion Andrew Tate was on hand for the color commentary. H1 drivers Shane, Jaime Nilson and J. Michael Kelly drew heat assignments from their home.

H1 Unlimited said in the lead up to the race that they were hopeful of putting on a full schedule but the time and date for the next race has not been announced.

Sutton, Hall of Fame basketball coach, dies at 84

BY CLIFF BRUNT
ASSOCIATED PRESS

Eddie Sutton waited so long to be inducted into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame. He couldn't hang on long enough to make it to the ceremony.

The man who led three teams to the Final Four and was the first coach to take four schools to the NCAA Tournament, died Saturday. He was 84.

Sutton's family said in a statement he died of natural causes at home in the Tulsa, Oklahoma, area, surrounded by his three sons and their families. His wife, Patsy, died in 2013.

"Dad and Mom treated their players like family and always shared the belief that his teachings went beyond the basketball court," the family wrote. "He cherished the time he spent at every school and appreciated the support of their loyal fans. He believed they deserved so much credit in the success of his programs."

Elected to the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame on April 3, Sutton fell short as a finalist six times before finally being selected. He had said he believed that a scandal that ended his stint at Kentucky was likely the culprit for his lengthy wait. The NCAA announced 18 allegations against the program in 1988, and he resigned in 1989.

He certainly had a worthy resume. He was 806-328 in 37 seasons as a Division I head coach — not counting vacated victories or forfeited games — and made it to 25 NCAA Tournaments. He led Final Four squads at Arkansas in 1978 and Oklahoma State in 1995 and 2004. He took Creighton, Arkansas, Kentucky and Oklahoma State to the NCAA Tournament. He was Associated Press Coach of the Year in 1978 at Arkansas and in 1986 at Kentucky.

Former Kentucky star Rex Chapman appreciated his time under Sutton.

"Eddie Sutton was a fascinating and complicated person," Chapman wrote in a tweet. "He also was an unbelievable teacher of the game of basketball. I was fortunate and lucky to have learned from him. Grateful."

Sutton's retirement at Oklahoma State in 2006 came roughly three months after he took a medical leave following a traffic accident that resulted in charges of aggravated DUI, speeding and driving on the wrong side of the road. He pleaded no contest to the charges, received a one-year deferred sentence and was ordered to pay a fine.

Through it all, he remained wildly popular at Oklahoma State, often attending games while confined to a wheelchair. He would receive loud cheers as the camera panned to him and Aloe Blacc's "The Man" played over the sound system.

"Oklahoma State University is deeply saddened by the passing of Coach Eddie Sutton," Oklahoma State president Burns Hargis said in a statement. "A Hall of Fame Coach with more than 800 wins, he revived our historic basketball program and will always be revered and loved by the Cowboy family. Our thoughts and prayers are with the entire Sutton family."

Even rivals had the highest respect for Sutton.

"Seems like just a few days ago we were celebrating the news that Coach Eddie Sutton had been elected to the Basketball Hall of Fame," Oklahoma athletic director Joe Castiglione said in a Tweet. "Now this very sad news of his passing. So grateful I had a chance to get to know him & his family. Thinking about Steve, Sean & Scott. RIP Coach."

Miscommunications and misunderstandings

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: I come from a large family. I was the youngest of four girls, and there were several years between us. Growing up, I barely knew my two older sisters.

One of the sisters remarried someone from a different religion, though they were not practicing. Fast-forward 20-25 years and this same couple drives by our small town 10-20 times during the year. After I entered retirement from having worked 50-60 hours a week, I realized that we made several invitations for them to stop in, but they never did.

(Let's not forget that they would stop in and see my other sister's family on the way).

We bought a historic house that has wooden floors, and a few years ago, we hosted a Christmas party. In the invite, I suggested wearing pretty socks, as shoes might harm the floor. Our house is surrounded by gravel. In response, this sister's husband refused to come to the party and gave no notice. He dropped off my sister at the street and drove off. We heard that his reaction was, "No one is going to tell me what to do." I sent a letter to all that it was disturbing that this took place. We had just moved in and barely had beds for our family, but since it was our turn, we wanted to have the Christmas celebration.

We four sisters went to counseling. It turned out that at my mother's death, 20 years ago, I gave a funny look to my new brother-in-law, and that is why there has been friction between us. The funny look was because I had information that our mother gave me right before she died, and I was trying to relay it to them.

A family member posted for her birthday pictures of family on Facebook she was happy to be with, and every family was represented except ours. — Sister in Distress

Dear Sister in Distress: First things first: Twenty years is a long time to hold a grudge. If you are upset that your sister and her husband never stopped by when they drove through your town, why don't you ask her about it? Sometimes, the answer is as simple as, "Well, we didn't know we were invited." A fresh invitation could do the trick. Try and let that one go.

As for the Christmas party, your brother-in-law's behavior was terrible. Not being flexible enough to enjoy a family Christmas party because of a refusal to wear socks — and a refusal to even have a conversation about it — misses the spirit of Christmas entirely. Also, there are a ton of cute Christmas socks — think Santa, Rudolph and the whole North Pole gang. Check in on your sister who is married to the stubborn louse. Make sure that she is happy with him. If not, encourage her to seek therapy.

Family is family

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: My brother and I own our parents' house, which is the house we grew up in. They put it in our names a while ago with the provision that they be allowed to live there for the rest of their lives. Recently, my brother, his wife and their two children moved in with my parents. They plan to live there for a few years, until their kids are old enough to start going to school, and then move to a town nearby with better schools.

This isn't a situation where they had to move in with my parents. They are financially secure and are planning to rent out their current home. Recently, a friend of ours who is aware of this half-jokingly told me that I should be collecting rent from them. This started me thinking. Should I ask for any type of monthly payment from them? — Wondering Sister

Dear Wondering Sister: Family is family. If you are wondering whether you should be collecting rent, I am wondering what you would like the future of your relationship with your brother to look like. If you want it to be peaceful and happy, do not ask him for rent. If anyone should be collecting rent, it is your parents, but that is completely at their discretion.

Two young children not in school can be exhausting for parents. Having your parents around to help out, or to just see their young grandchildren, could be great for all of them. It takes a village to raise a family, and if your brother wants help from his village, let him. The more you focus on your own life and the less you focus on his, the happier you will be.

Dear Annie: I live in an apartment building retirement community in Arizona. The staff has made us feel quite safe by setting guidelines for social distancing.

We have an outstanding activities director who plans events that keep social distancing but break the boredom. She arranged for the department heads to prepare a "circus," and they went through the halls ringing doorbells.

They all dressed in clown costumes, and the marketing director wore her son's tuxedo and was the ringmaster. They hooted and hollered and danced through the halls, swinging Hula-Hoops and dragging a wagon full of stuffed animals.

The event was a big hit and cheered us up! — Circus Show

Dear Circus Show: Yours is a very uplifting story. Your activities director had a creative idea. Send her a big thank you!

Most county offices still open by appointment only

BY COURIER STAFF REPORT

Most county offices in the Jefferson County Courthouse will continue to be open by appointment-only during Stage 3 of the Back on Track plan to reopen Indiana that began Friday, according to a release from the county.

The only services open for walk-in appointments are court services, the Jefferson County Health Department and early voting at the courthouse starting on Tuesday for the June 2 primary election.

Other offices, including the county's assessor, auditor, circuit court, clerk, commissioner, probation, prosecutor, Purdue extension, recorder, soil and water, superior court, surveyor, treasurer and veterans service offices will remain by appointment-only during Stage 3, which is scheduled to run through June 13.

Only two people are allowed inside at a time for court services, which individuals can reach by calling 812-274-3940. The waiting area of the health department will remain closed and visitors may be asked to wait outside until the office is clear of people. Residents voting early at the courthouse may be asked to do the same if the area gets congested.

The county encourages visitors to wear a mask when entering facilities for services, according to the release.

STATE OF INDIANA
IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF JEFFERSON COUNTY
SS:
COUNTY OF JEFFERSON
CAUSE NO. 39C01-2005-AD-00016
IN THE MATTER OF THE ADOPTION OF PAISLEY GRACE BEAR,
Minor Child,
CHARLES MICHAEL MILLER
Petitioner,

NOTICE TO UNNAMED FATHER

The unnamed father of the child born to Rebecca Sue Miller (Bear) on April4, 2013, or the person who claims to be the father of the child born to Rebecca Sue Miller (Bear) on April 4, 2013 is notified that a petition for adoption of the child was filed on the 13th day of May, 2020 in the office of the Clerk of the Jefferson Circuit Court, 300 East Main Street, Room 203, Madison, Indiana 47250.

If the unnamed putative father seeks to contest the adoption of the child, the unnamed putative father must file a motion to contest the adoption in accordance with IC 31-19-10-1 in the above named court within thirty (30) days after the date of service of this notice. This notice may be served by publication.

If the unnamed putative father does not file a motion to contest the adoption within thirty (30) days after service of this notice, the above named court shall hear and determine the petition for adoption. The unnamed putative father's consent irrevocably implied and the unnamed putative father loses the right to contest both the adoption or the validity of the unnamed putative father's implied consent to the adoption. The unnamed putative father loses the right to establish paternity of the child under IC 31-14.

Nothing Rebecca Sue Miller (Bear) or anyone else says to the unnamed putative father of the child relieves the unnamed putative father of his obligation under this notice.

Under Indiana law, a putative father is a person who is named as or claims that he may be the father of a child born out of wedlock but who has not yet been legally proven to be the child's father.

This notice complies with IC 31-19-4-4 but does not exhaustively set forth the unnamed putative father's legal obligations under the Indiana adop-
